

INSURGENTS AT RED DEER

Largely Attended Meeting in Town
Down Line Yesterday

MUCH MYSTERY ABOUT IT

Though it is said That Some Measure of Compromise Was Under Debate
at Gathering

Red Deer, April 30.—Red Deer was yesterday the scene of a gathering which caused no little stir and speculation. Its proceedings were enveloped in the deepest mystery and just what was accomplished by our correspondent has not been able to discover. Those who have been looking for information in regard to the political situation are unable to understand the need for the close secrecy that was observed. It is learned, however, that the subjects under discussion had no reference to the Loyalists' Missionary Movement. Those who were present included Hon. W. H. Cuddehe, J. E. Boyle, J. R. Holden, E. H. Riley, John A. McDougall, Hon. W. A. Buchanan, Dr. Warnock, Dr. Campbell, J. W. Glendinning, George P. Smith, Charles Stewart and L. M. Roberts, all members of the legislature, familiarly described as "insurgents."

The local committee having charge of the arrangements consisted of E. Michener, M.P.P., George O. W. Scherer, M.P.P., J. Gaez. It is stated in some circles that the principal question under discussion was whether some measure of compromise should be agreed to when the legislature resumed.

Mr. Boyle has just returned from the south of the province, where, it is said, he was the active force in getting the members together.

Child Feared the Census Man.

Washington, April 29.—While thirty men dragged the river and posse searched the neighboring country, Lemoyne Moore, 6 years old, hid in brush, 100 feet from his home and was lost for five hours. He was trying to escape the census enumerators. The child had been told how the census men took bad boys, and as one of the government officials approached the front door of the Moore home, Lemoyne fled from the back door. After midnight he crept back to the house.

$14,000 Damages Awarded

Vancouver, April 29.—After three hours of deliberation in the first accident case growing out of the lake-view collision last November in which nineteen lives were lost, a special jury last night returned a verdict of $14,000 for the widow and children of Harry H. Clayton. To the widow the jury gave $9,000 and to the two children, Isabella, aged 12, and George, aged 10, $5,000 each.

Manitoba Legislature.

Winnipeg, April 30.—It is rumored here that the local legislature will meet two weeks hence when the House will be dissolved and the elections held in July.

Thaw Stays in Asylum.

New York, April 30.—Harry K. Thaw, who killed Stanford White, must remain in a New York insane asylum. The appellate division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn handed down a decision today which defeats the efforts of Mrs. Mary C. Thaw to have her son transferred to another asylum.

Blazing Match Shaved Monkey

New York, April 30.—The very smallest monkey in the Bronx Zoo found a sulphur match on the door of his cage yesterday and bit the head of it. Thereupon the very mischievous pair of whiskers in the monkey house went up in flames.

Ferdinand Englemon, a keeper, discovered the match came from the side of Abraham Lipoy, of 737 Fifth street who was caught throwing other matches in the cage. Lipoy said he thought it was funny to do this. Englemon had Lipoy locked up in the Bronx park police station on the charge of disorderly conduct.

PATIENT NINE HOURS OLD

Isolation Hospital Has Youngest Patient
They Ever Had—Is Doing Well.

All records have been broken at the Isolation Hospital, where they have received a patient who will be only nine hours old at noon today. The mother, suffering from erysipelas, was removed from one of the city hospitals yesterday and a child was born shortly after her arrival at the Isolation Hospital. The baby is doing well.

Had Premonition of Death

Chicago, April 30.—Following a premonition of his death, which found expression in two returns to his door to kiss his mother goodnight, Thomas Cummings, 19 years old, of 620 West Forty-fifth street, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon at Armour & Co.'s power house in the stock yards. "I felt as though I were not going to see you again, mother," said Cummings, as he left his mother for the second time.

He was killed a few hours later by a shock of 1,500 volts of electricity while he was splicing wires in the power house.

FOUR SETTLERS BURNED OUT

Fire Started in Burning a Fire
Guard—Heatnomor District Swept by Flames.

Heatnomor, Alta., April 29.—In a grain fire that swept this district the other day, four settlers were completely burned out, losing their homes, stables, and all their effects.

The fire started by one of the settlers attempting to burn a fire guard around his premises. As the day was calm, and there appeared to be no prospect of wind, a Mr. Whyte, a farmer of this district, thought that it would be a good opportunity to burn the grass and brush around his farm, as a protection against prairie fires. As there was no wind and the fire burned very slowly, he thought it would be safe to leave it, and so went to another part of his farm to do some work. While he was away, however, the wind suddenly arose, and began to sweep the fire before it. Before he could reach the spot, the fire had swept around the house and stables, and they were completely destroyed, while he had to stand by helplessly.

The fire then swept on over several miles of country, destroying in its wake the homes and effects of three more homesteaders. In one case, where a settler had several cattle, they rushed into a lake in attempting to escape the flames, and were drowned. Kamsack, Sask., April 30.—Serious losses are reported from north of the Swift river by prairie fires. Several settlers have lost all their belongings. Among the sufferers is J. C. Murray of Neenah, who lost about 5,000 feet of lumber and a granary filled with oats.

BIG PRICE FOR HOGS

Fred Cuthbert, Lloyminster Farmer, Sells
Fifty for $1,776.50

Don't you wish that you had gone in for hog raising? Yesterday Fred Cuthbert, a farmer from Lloyminster, took fifty hogs to the packing plant where he received a cheque for $1,776.50. This works out at about $35.33 per hog.

"Air" added to Lityny

London, April 30.—An extemporaneous addition to the Anglican church liturgy was made at the service in the Litchfield parish church today, when the vicar, Preliminary Bolton, conducting the liturgy, besought divine protection for those who travel by hand water or air.

The interpolation of "air" was due to the presence of Graham White and his mother. The latter had expressed a wish to offer public thanks for her son's safety in his attempt to fly from London to Manchester, which stopped short yesterday at Litchfield.

SAVAGES ATE MISSIONARY

Several Missionaries and Christian
Natives Die Horrible Deaths.

OCCURRED IN SOUTHERN SEAS

Horatio Hopkins and Hector L. McPherson are the two White Men who Lost Their Lives.

Seattle, April 30.—Details of the eating by cannibals on February 5th, of Rev. Horatio Hopkins and his assistant, Rev. Hector Laurie McPherson, missionaries of the Presbyterian Church on a savage island, were brought by the barkentine "Mary E. Winkelman," which arrived today at Mukilteo, Wash., from the Tonga Islands on the South Seas.

While the barkentine lay at Tanigatabi in the Tonga Islands a canoe load of mission natives from a savage island arrived at Pua bringing the news of the butchery. The natives said that Hopkins and McPherson were teaching in the mission building which stands on that beach in the little harbor of Savage Island, when two hundred unconverted savages howling war cries and brandishing clubs and spears rushed on them and took them prisoners. The missionaries had twenty converts in training at the time and only nine escaped. All the rest of them were roasted alive and eaten in the savages' horrible orgy that followed the raid.

Gave His Life for Charity.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 30.—Dr. James S. O'Brien, one of the oldest and best known physicians of the city, gave his life for the sake of a charity patient today. He died shortly after midnight as the result of an operation performed for a poor patient, by which he became infected with blood poisoning.

B.C. HINDUS PASSED MANY RESOLUTIONS

Demand That They be Given Same
Liberties as Other British Subjects.

Vancouver, B.C., April 30.—At a meeting of the Hindus of the lower mainland, held yesterday afternoon in the Swedish Svak Hotel, 1632 Second avenue west, a series of resolutions was drafted, protesting against what was characterized as unfair discrimination of the Dominion government against British Indian immigrants and asking that the restrictions complained of be removed. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to Ottawa, the Viceroy of India, the Secretary of State for India, the native representatives on the Vice-Regal Council, and the native press of India.

"One of the sacred privileges of British citizenship," runs the introduction, "is individual liberty. The treatment received by us under the existing Dominion immigration laws hampers our individual liberty."

"All British subjects, after a residence of six months, are eligible to citizenship of the Dominion of Canada, but, to our misfortune, we are debarred from enjoying this right. We strongly protest against it, and demand all our rights as British subjects with all the emphasis we can command."

"We appeal and most forcefully bring to your notice that no such discriminating laws are existing against us in foreign countries like the United States of America, Germany, Japan and others, to whom we do not owe any allegiance. Under these circumstances, we most respectfully implore a favorable consideration and prompt amendments to these unfair laws."

WHEAT MOVING WEST

Three Hundred Cars in Vancouver—Elevator Co. Has Steamship Line Now.

Vancouver, B.C., April 30.—The A. B. C. Elevator Company has taken over the Canadian-Mexican line of steamers and will ship grain in bulk in large quantities. One steamer has already been purchased and two more are being negotiated for. They are to be specially adapted for the trade. During the last month between two and three hundred cars of wheat have arrived in the yards and it is still stored in the cars, other facilities being lacking. The shortage of cars for lumber shipping has thus been eased. E. H. Heaps, of Vancouver, is president of the new company. L. P. Strong, of Calgary, is vice-president and J. A. Mitchell, Victoria, formerly of Winnipeg, is one of the directors.

Owner Wanted for $125,000.00

Dublin, April 30.—A fortune of $125,000.00 is lying in the Court of Chancery awaiting distribution among the next-of-kin of a millionaire named Harrison, who died in London, but was a native of the north of Ireland. It is stated that the male branch of the family are persons from the Portadown district named Gracey, Henry, Liddell and Wilson. Some of these are supposed to be in America.

$240,000 IS LOST BY FIRE

Winnipeg Firm of Foley Bros. Larson and Co. Burned Out.

WAS A SPECTACULAR BLAZE

Contents of Big Warehouse are a Total
Loss—Building Badly Damaged—
Insurance Small.

Winnipeg, April 29.—A most spectacular fire started shortly after 2 o'clock in the wholesale grocery department of Foley Bros. Larson and Company, Main street. Although the watchman had been through the building within half an hour before discovery and noticed nothing, when the alarm was turned in the fire had got a tremendous hold in the three upper stories of the seven-story building.

A general alarm was turned in and the entire available fighting force of the brigade concentrated on the fire and finally got it under control, but not until midnight was the fire finally extinguished. For the space of an hour and a half the roof was set ablaze, mounting 20 and 30 feet in the air and illuminating the entire city, causing total darkness when the flames were confined to the building.

The high pressure system worked satisfactorily, but the pride of the city, its water tower, was abandoned, after it was discovered it could not force the water through it, the streams that came from the hand hose on the ground going right over the building.

The three top stories were gutted and damaged by fire, smoke and water, and the entire stock on the lower floors was irretrievably ruined by the flood of water.

It is impossible to get a reliable estimate yet, but the damage to the building is estimated at $40,000, and to the stock and contents $200,000. It is impossible to get the amount of insurance yet, but it was fully covered, largely by American companies. But a few yards from Main street, the main artery of city traffic was promptly crossed with several lines of fire hose, paralyzing street car and vehicle traffic. An element of humor was provided by the production and solemn clamping of hose bridges to one set of rails where there was no hose and which consequently did not break the blockade. It was evident, however, that the bridges were for small hose and useless for fire-hose hose of the high pressure system.

The police handled the crowd well, and beyond the blockade there was no inconvenience to the public.

MONORAIL LINES FOR NORTH LAND

Alaska is to Have One Hundred Miles of This Scientific Railway
by Next Year.

London, April 30.—The first practical application of Louis Brennan's monorail invention is to be made in Alaska, where a system of mono railroads will be built connecting several camps. The exclusive rights to use this car in Alaska have been granted to an American syndicate represented by J. E. Ballaine of Seattle and a firm of New York bankers. The syndicate has agreed to build 100 miles of railway within one year.

Thirteen Year Old Girl Suicides

Alton, Ill., April 30.—Thirteen-year-old Nina Anthis committed suicide in school yesterday afternoon in the presence of her teacher and thirty schoolmates, by drinking carbolic acid. She left a note on her desk in which she said that her heart was broken because her foster-father scolded her, and asked that she be buried with a favorite doll and a ring she wore.

She remained in the room during the recess, but took her place in the line with the class for roll-call. As her name was reached she stepped from the line and without a word drained a two-ounce bottle of poison. She died before a doctor reached her.

PARKIN WAS BENNETT MAN

Mysterious Mr. Parkin, of Calgary,
Not Liberal Worker.

WAS BENNETT'S ORGANIZER

And is Now Wanted by Police for Passing
Worthless Checks—Was Once Convicted.

Calgary, April 29.—The identity of the mysterious "Mr. Parkin of Calgary," whose name is appearing prominently in the proceedings of the Royal Commission at Winnipeg has been learned here.

Far from being the Liberal organizer for Alberta, this man is a M. Parkin, who acted for R. Bennett in the last provincial elections as organizer in words two and four in this city. He is also the same man who was convicted of passing worthless cheques here some months ago.

Parkin left here for Winnipeg two weeks ago saying he was going to sell some money. He stayed at the Royal Alexandra as a cheque for $100 made payable to this hotel has just been protested here, Parkin having no funds to meet it.

Another cheque for $10,000 has been sent back for the same reason, but it is not known if he cashed it. Other cheques are pouring in and a legal firm here wired its representatives in Winnipeg to notify all banks not to cash his cheques.

Parkin is a member of the Salvation Army and the local officers wired the Winnipeg corps to locate him. Word has come back that although he has attended a number of meetings he has not been seen for some days and the police have been unable to locate him.

He is still being looked for. Parkin is well known in Calgary, but has never been connected with police other than as organizer for Bennett the Conservative member for Calgary.

YUILL APPOINTED INSPECTOR

Will See that the Exhibition Buildings

John Yuill, a local contractor, has been appointed inspector of the building operations at the Exhibition Park. Mayor Lee and Commissioner Buecher took a trip down the park bright and early this morning, and looked over the ground in order to see if the plans for the buildings were suitably located.

MR. BARKER RESIGNS

Vacates his Office as President of the United Aids Owing to Many Duties.

J. Travis Barker has resigned the office of president of the United Aids. His action is due solely to the fact that his many public engagements call upon him to relinquish some of the work that he has undertaken.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the United Aids has made a grant of $100 towards payment of the salary of the Edmonton city nurse.

The United Aids have sanctioned the furnishing of six trunks for maternity cases. They will be loaned in cases where need for them is shown.

HUDSON BAY LINE WELCOMED BY WEST

Prospect of New Route by Rail and Water to the East is Seen.

Winnipeg, April 29.—The inclusion in the federal estimates handed down last week at Ottawa of $500,000 for preliminary expenses in connection with the railway to Hudson's Bay has awakened lively interest in this great project. There is probably today no feature of development in the west that is taken more seriously by the masses than the construction of this road, and the possible opening within three years of a new rail and water route to the ultimate markets of consumption.

The growing need of additional routes to transport for western grain is illustrated by the increased shipment of grain via United States lines to European markets. For instance, last week there passed over the international boundary at Gretna, Man., a train load of forty cars, carrying grain via the 1101 lines out of Canada for export. The shunting arrangements with the States permit this and Western shippers avail themselves of this route when they find it more economical or convenient. Thus, the completion of the new Grand Trunk Pacific grain route from Winnipeg to the head of lake navigation in Canada and active construction work on the Hudson's Bay line, together with energetic plans of the C. P. R. to shorten curves and lower grades to the coast for shipment of grain to Europe via the Pacific come at a time when the prairie provinces promise an enormous increase in grain production.

SPIDERS EARN BIG MONEY

Los Angeles Firm Uses Insects to Help
Make Delicate Optical Instruments.

Los Angeles, April 30.—Few persons look upon the common garden spider as a skilled worker in occupations other than the trapping of flies, but a Los Angeles optical company is utilizing a force of the insects in the manufacture of certain delicate instruments used by surveyors, architects and astronomers.

The spiders are kept constantly engaged in making webs which are transferred to small parts of the instruments called "cross-wires," which are necessary in ascertaining exact distance without actual measurement. The spiders, while held by the hind legs by their keeper, weave webs across a diagonal frame. These webs are then removed from the frame by means of a wire instrument, the ends of which are covered with shellac. When the shellac hardens, the webs are available for the manufacture of "cross-wires."

One spider can spin about forty feet of web in 15 minutes, while an instrument equipped with a single inch of web sells for $3. The keeper says that the spiders do their best work on cold days, being irritable and dangerous on hot weather.

ANOTHER WEEK IN WINNIPEG

Many Bank Managers are to be Called Yet.

MINTY IS STILL ON STAND

Hot Cross Firing Between Bennett and Witness—Faulkner Hasn't Shown up Yet

Winnipeg, April 30.—It will probably be nearly another week before the Alberta Commission finishes its investigation in Winnipeg. Faulkner announced at the opening of the session this morning that half a dozen more witnesses have been called. They are E. A. James, manager of the Alberta and Great Waterways; H. P. McMahon, Inspector of the Trades Bank; N. G. Leslie, manager of the Imperial Bank; G. Munroe, manager of the Merchants Bank; W. Whitlay, manager of the Bank of Hamilton; J. D. McArthur, and H. Parsons.

Faulkner, who it was said had skipped Winnipeg 30 to avoid the summons, has returned here again. Walsh asked if Faulkner was present, but he was not on hand.

G. D. Minty was again cross-examined by R. B. Bennett. He knew nothing of the statement of Emerson on the stand that part of Cornwall's $240,000 stock in the Athabasca syndicate was to be divided amongst politicians of weight. All syndicate arrangements having fallen through, Bowen came on the scene. He was introduced to him by Cornwall and Minty introduced Bowen to the other members of the syndicate some time after May 5th. On May 18th Cornwall went asking how Bowen got on and eight days later Minty replied saying it looked like business. Mr. Bennett wanted to know why Minty at this time tried to gather in all outstanding interests in the syndicate at par. He avowed Cornwall that he expected to get them all rounded up so as to sell to Bowen.

All the syndicate members except Cornwall signed by June 6th. The agreement turning over the charter to Clarke. Bowen was looking after Cornwall.

Bennett tried hard to get Minty to say whether Clarke wanted to him the document signed by Cornwall assigning his interests in the syndicate after the vote was taken in the legislature.

"Did you have this paper when Cornwall's vote was challenged in the legislature?"

"I can't say."

Minty pleaded he was ill about this time and could not possibly fix the date. He got the document from Clarke so as to assist in the inquiry. This was the only document he got. All Minty could remember was that it was in March.

Bennett started on a new tack and questioned Minty closely as to Clarke's and Bowen's statements in June and July, 1908, as to what assistance they expected from the government. Minty said they were optimistic, but he couldn't say whether the government gave Clarke any assurances.

"Do you swear Clarke did not see any member of the government?"

He couldn't swear.

There was then some hot cross-firing and fencing between Bennett and Minty, but the latter claimed he did not know what Clarke was promised. After June 6th, 1908, Minty became the solicitor for Bowen and Clarke, and gave up the solicitorship for the syndicate. He said that Macphail was not correct when he said the funds of the syndicate in the Home Bank were at his disposal.

Bennett next examined Minty as to what he did when in Edmonton in October and November. He met the Attorney-General and Woods. He was introduced to Woods to draw up the trust mortgage, but Minty could not say whether the amount of the guarantee discussed then was $25,000, but presumed it was.

"Are you sure it was not $13,000, the amount the old company asked for?"

Minty could not swear to it.

Minty was also closely examined as to telegrams which were received between himself and Woods and so was not

GOVERNMENT WAS LIBERAL

Paid Full Salary of Employee for Six Months he Spent in Hospital.

Robert Abraham, the foreman of construction on the new provincial building has just recovered sufficiently to enable him to leave the General Hospital, where he has been confined for the last six months, with a fractured leg.

The department of public works have been exceedingly liberal in compensating him, paying him his full salary of $150 per month as well as his expenses, which would make a total of nearly $2,000 for the time during which he has been ill. His leg was fractured in a rather peculiar way. One frosty morning last November he had just finished testing the chains on the big cranes used on the work, when one of them broke, dropping a large steel beam on top of another beam on which Abraham was standing. The jar of the beam which was struck, caused the fracture.

The capital was secured in Paris by Mr. Revillon, and in Chicago by Mr. Dwyer, who was formerly connected with the packing business in Cincinnati, but came to Edmonton when Swift & Co. opened their plant in the north end.

ASKS COURT FOR A WIFE

Kansas City Man Enters Formal Plea of Lovelessness.

SAYS COURT IS LAST RESORT

Judge Orders Application Filed and Sentences him to be Married to First Woman Willing.

Kansas City, Kas., April 30.—The deliberations of the Criminal Court were interrupted a few days ago by a letter carrier who handed Judge Latschaw a special delivery letter. On the envelope was written "Haste," "Personal" and "Confidential." The stern look on the judge's face changed to a smile as he read the first few lines of the letter. It was a formal application which Fred M. Miller, an attorney, desired to file with the court to have his name placed on the list of desirable men who ask the court to find them wives.

It was the first application of the kind ever filed in the Criminal Court in Jackson County, and the only explanation Judge Latschaw is able to give of Miller's reasons for filing the application is that he thought a woman in jail and anxious to get out would be the most likely person to consent to marry him.

"Here is a man who desires to prefer a charge against himself in the Criminal Court of wanting to get married," Judge Latschaw said. "File the application, Mr. Clerk. Enter a plea of guilty after his name and sentence him to be married to the first woman he has left out to be his wife. Proceed, gentlemen."

Mr. Miller's formal application in court form is in part as follows: "In the Criminal Court of Jackson County, in re the matter of Fred M. Miller, lonely man, in search of a wife.

"Now comes Fred M. Miller, applicant and petitioner herein, and represents to the court that he is a single man, inspired with the lofty ambition to become a married man. That after fifteen years of faithful and diligent search after the love and affections of a woman, with his own love and affection ever ready to cast at the feet of the first one who showed favor, he has failed to achieve the aim of a laudable ambition. Said Miller makes the following promises and pledges:

What He Promises

"1. That he will love his wife with a never-faltering or waning love, and treat her with kindness and consideration.

"2. That he will provide her with a good home, free from the cares of domestic duties, save and except cooking meals for two, mending, patching and housekeeping in general on a light scale, family washing excepted.

"3. That I will give her freely of all my income.

"4. That she may have her own way in all things so long as she consents to remain with me as my wife.

"5. That I will not speak cross to her, and that if I do or say anything to anger her, I will stand by quietly and let her administer such punishment as may satisfy her that I am truly penitent.

LOST CROPS; GRIEVED; DIED

Illinois Fruit Grower Died When he Discovered Frost had Destroyed Orchards.

Streator, Ill., April 30.—Grief following the destruction of his promising fruit crop by frost last Saturday is believed to have caused the death of Peter Schotman, a fruit grower and gardener of this city.

He died yesterday morning after learning of the damage to his fruit and vegetables. No longer able to support himself and his family by mining coal, Mr. Schotman had depended for several years past on his orchard and garden, but fate was unkind and he was the victim of many reverses. This season's yield, however, bid fair to more than repay him for his many losses.

Smuggled Themselves

Sudbury, April 26.—Two Chinamen are held here on a charge of smuggling themselves in from the United States. The penalty is a years imprisonment. A prosecution will be instituted.

INSANE WITH JEALOUSY

Young Man Shoots his 18-Year Old Wife and Tries to Suicide.

Everett, Wash., April 30.—Insanely jealous of his 18-year-old wife, J. W. Boyce, a fireman employed by the Clough-Hartley Shingle Company, himself only 18 years old, shot and dangerously wounded the young woman yesterday on the corner of Grand avenue and Twenty-sixth street, then turned his smoking revolver upon himself.

The young couple had been living at the home of A. C. Bennett on High Street and numerous quarrels caused by Boyce jealousy have taken place. Once he attempted to burn their marriage license, but Mrs. Boyce rescued the document from the flames.

The young husband shot his wife twice, once in the side and once in the breast, being so close to her that her clothing was powder-burned. Boyce then sent a bullet through his own body just under the heart, and which penetrated the lung. At the hospital he asked the physician to find out how his wife was and expressed pleasure upon hearing that she would probably recover. Boyce will also recover, say the physicians in attendance.

Killed His Man in Church

Portageville, Mo., April 30.—James G. Young was shot and killed by his cousin, Nelson Riehsburg, in the Methodist church last night. The trouble arose over Young's attentions to Miss Ginda Swilley, a 20 year old school teacher, sister-in-law of Riehsburg.

The minister had just pronounced the benediction, when Young went to the pulpit to speak with a deacon. As he turned and started for the door Riehsburg entered. The two men walked towards each other. When about five feet apart Riehsburg drew a pistol and fired two shots. These did not bring Young down. Riehsburg grabbed him by the collar and threw him on the floor. He then shot his prostrate victim three times.

Accused of Killing Babies

Chicago, April 30.—The reform section of the Women Club held a post-mortem yesterday on Chicago's infant mortality and heard the blame placed on milk, midwives, and the state board of health.

Dr. Caroline Hedger asserted that the "state board of health is responsible for the midwives," and advised Miss Chicago to "lay aside the mythical breastplates, her original banyard hat, the 'I Will' motto, and attend to her babies."

Victoria Day Sports.

The Fort Saskatchewan sports committee have arranged a better programme than ever this year for Victoria Day, consisting of horse racing, athletic and other attractions. The athletic events, numbering twenty-two, will be conducted under the auspices of the Alberta Amateur Athletic Association, and besides the ten-mile road race, which is an annual event, include events for juniors under eighteen, and for juveniles under fifteen years. The horse racing bill consists of six events to be run in eight days. The value of the prize list for the racing and athletics approximates $2,000. One of the chief attractions will be the Markle-Bell-Walker performing animal show, which alone will be well worth the trip to see.

Adequate provision is being made for serving refreshments on the grounds, and a special rate has been arranged for with the railway.

Just Good Enough

To Be Dangerous

If poor advertising mediums were ENTIRELY worthless they would not be dangerous! For they could not, then, make any appeal whatever to sensible advertisers.

But an advertising medium which has a LITTLE MERIT is, like "a little knowledge," a "dangerous thing." Some business men there are, always, who—for considerations of "cheapness," etc.,—will either rely upon such mediums wholly, or give hem an absurdly large part in the ir advertising campaigns.

A POLITICAL COMEDY

Richard the Bold and William the Conqueror Before the Footlights.

It was not the resignation of Mr. Cushing or the speech of Mr. Boyle, or the questions of Mr. Smith that stumped so many members of the Legislature in the recent session and so many people all over the province. It was the foxey Mr. Bennett who accomplished the feat which became the topic of the day all over Canada. He is the champion political sleuth of the West and this is not his first but his second grand-stand play. Old timers remember well that he made a somewhat similar commotion in the old Territorial Legislature when he undertook to stampee that august body against the Hamilton administration. On that occasion he was more voluble and less tactful than this time, and his subject was not so inflammatory, so he failed to be taken seriously by either the people or the legislature. Yet few of the population of Alberta today ever heard of Mr. Bennett's detective work of ten years ago and outside the city of Calgary his propensity for bluff, bluster, suspicion and mystery was ununderstood or his campaign of 1910 would not have been so successful.

Calgary knows "Bennett like a book but Calgary winked her other eye when he made a murderous lunge at the Government that settled the capital in Edmonton and the university in Strathcona. He did it all so cleverly too. We admire his cunning. With soft words he approached the Honorable Mr. Cushing who, like himself, had been successful at the polls in Calgary.

An extinguished play writer has dramatized the affair thus:

Scene I—The Plot.

Enter—Richard the Bold and William the Conqueror (?)

"Come, let us bury the hatchet for the sake of our beloved city and the church that is so dear to us both." We can imagine Richard saying to his senior colleague with the blandest of smiles.

"This is a pleasure I had not expected, my dear Richard, but we're companions in victory, and you're right, our city should take precedence over mere partyism. Indeed Richard, I am disgusted with party politics in political affairs since they lay their golden eggs in those Eskimo villages on the banks of the Saskatchewan."

"Delighted I am to hear you talk thus, William, and your broad-minded view of the situation is admirable," replied Richard. "But I am a little surprised that you gave your consent to that northern railway project."

"Why, what's the matter with that, Richard?"

"What's the matter? Why, if you knew what I know about that deal, William, you would not stand for it for one minute."

"Well, I don't get my way about it, altogether, but I always thought it was a very good bargain for the province and did not want to be too greedy." We can imagine the then Minister of Public Works replying:

"Now, William, as one Canadian to another, and confidentially between us, I want to tell you that below the fair surface of that deal there has been, to my certain knowledge, the vilest conspiracy against the public works contract for lumber. But did it never strike you as strange why they took the railway business out of your department and turned it over to the Premier? My dear William, they knew that you were too honest to be a party to the villainy."

"Well, really, Richard, I never thought of that before, but I believe there is something in what you say. Yes, sir, it comes to me like a revelation. I see it all now. They relieved me not because I was overworked, but because I would not stand for their corruption. I don't need to have thought that of Dr. Ruth, erford, but I see it all now."

"You say you know something about the deal, Richard, tell me what it is. I want to know the worst."

"William, you're a man after my own heart. How did it ever happen that you and I were political opponents? Did it never strike you as preposterous that $20,000 a mile should be the bond guarantee and the interest rate of 5 per cent? Why our own city of Calgary sells its bonds at a 4 per cent, and you know yourself that the C.N.R. and G.T.P. branch lines are only allowed $12,000 per mile. There's an Ethiopian in the fence, as sure as you're born, William, can't you see him?"

"J. D. McA.," was negotiating with Clarke about going into the construction company and building the road, but they could not come to terms. It is said that J. D. wanted a good big share of the profit to be derived and a cheaper road than Clarke proposed to build; now he tells me confidentially that he could build the line for $10,000 per mile. See where the graft comes in? I tell you another thing, too, William, I have inside information that a Toronto man proposes to sue Cornell and Clarke for $250,000 as his share of the profits they are going to make on the deal. Another thing, you know our people (I mean the C. P. R.) have their hands full this year with main line betterments and the numerous branch lines throughout the west, on which we take no guarantee of bonds. We have had our eyes on the mineral resources of the Athabasca and McKenzie river districts for many years and when we get our lands pretty well all sold in the south country, we propose to go up there. We would like to be at Fort McMurray before any other company."

"That's fine, Richard, we don't want anything to detract from the southern boom. Whatever possessed me to agree to that northern road, anyway? I opposed Cornwall's proposition because it did not look to me as though he was prepared to finance the road to completion, but when a man of Clarke's financial standing came along with an engineer of Dr. Waddell's reputation, I weakened, but since hearing what you say, Richard, I am determined to resign my portfolio and retire to private life."

"William, don't do anything rash. You are too good a man to be lost to the country so easily. Take my advice and you'll be premier of this province in three months."

"You flatter me, Richard, I never aspired to such an honor."

"Not at all. You are the man to bring Calgary into her own, and I'll tell you how it can be done. You know that Boyle is awfully sore over the recent cabinet appointments which left him out entirely. I'll post you up on what I know and surmise about the iniquitous features of that railway deal and then you go up and have a talk with Boyle. From what I hear of his discontent and from what I know of his vindictive disposition I'll wager he'll be ready in a moment to knife Ruth and Cross. He has lost all hope of political honors while the present government stands, and then, you know, Clarke turned down his application for the solicitorship of the railway. We have no particular use for him except to take away the aspect of sectionalism in our little scheme. When it comes to naming an attorney-general in your coalition government you can find a better man than he is."

"Having won Mr. Boyle you and he can make a tour of the province and sow the seeds of discord in the minds of the members of the Legislature, using tact not to raise the ire of any who might be to loyal to the administration to suit our purpose. I will keep in the background an interested spectator ready to give you any assistance I can. We'll set this scheme well in hand and rounded out before the house meets in February and your resignation will be the explosion that will scare the wits out of the government and stampede the country like the Pacific scandal did in old Sir John's time. Boyle will follow your resignation with a want of confidence resolution and a big split and I'll spring half a dozen mines of mystery in a speech at the close of the debate that will simply drive the Rutherford administration out of business, wipe Clarke's railway off the map, kill the C.P.R. taxation case dead, and Lieutenant Governor Huley will have no alternative but to call on you, dear William, to form a new government."

"It's a pretty large undertaking but I feel myself rising to the occasion, Richard, and shall be eternally grateful to you for your assistance to carry it to a successful issue. My experience in the working business is limited, but if we can only keep them in perfect ignorance of our intentions we shall come out on top of the pile. I'll attend all the party banquets between now and the opening day and make pleasant speeches indicating my loyalty to the administration. The premier and I have always been the best of friends and it makes my heart ache to have to leave him on this occasion, but my principles of honor must not be sacrificed on the altar of friendship. I think about the second day after the House meets will be the best time to touch the match; what think you, Richard?"

"I'm agreed."

"Then mum's the word."

"I'll get my stool pigeons working and begin a secret and exhaustive study of all the legislation and when you get Boyle in line, he can study the departmental files, and you and he can work up the evidence available around the capital."

"I am glad you told me, Richard, about that McArthur episode. I'll just run a big bluff on the Government to the tail end of my resignation speech, offering to build the road on the specification adopted for $12,000 per mile. I'll be perfectly safe for they can't throw the Clarke contract without some default on his part, but my bluff will help to fan the flame."

"Great head, William, what a capital scheme, there's nothing like a bluff or a mystery to inflame the public mind. There is just three months to hatch this scheme and we'll have to get busy right now."

ALFALFA HAY NOW MADE INTO FLOUR

Half the Families in Omaha are Eating Hay and They Like it, Too.

Omaha, April 30.—Man apparently is returning to a grass diet, not only finding it palatable, but fat producing as well, taking the place of meat and wheat flour bread. The new food is alfalfa, and Omaha is the first city in the country to put the provender upon the market.

Until quite recently alfalfa was considered a food for animals. For years it has been fed to cattle and horses and used as pasture for hogs. Now, however, it is serving another purpose, and the dry leaves are being ground into meal and flour, mixed with wheat flour and sold on the market as composition out of which bread and pastry is being made.

In other words, the time has arrived when if a man has a large field or a patch of alfalfa in his back yard, he can shoulder his scythe, go out, cut down his grass, cure it in the sun, haul it away to the mill, and if he so desires, there exchange it for four meals of alfalfa hay, bring it home and turn it over to his wife or the servant, who in turn will convert this alfalfa hay meal or flour into bread, biscuits, pancakes or pastry.

At the present time more than half of the families of Omaha are eating hay. This hay eating is not confined to the poor, but extends to those who are in comfortable circumstances. The wealthy as well as the poor, the laboring man as well as the idlers are going out to a hay diet, and they all say they like it.

ATE DYNAMITE, WANTED TO DIE

Convict Swallowed it and Then Dropped Stone on his Toe but Didn't Explode.

Oakland, Cal., April 30.—As the result of a most unusual and probably impossible attempt to take his own life Lyle White, a vagrant serving a term in the city prison, got a sore foot while his head was swollen up, according to the police, "like a poisoned pup." White is a sort of despondent individual at the best, and since his incarceration he has been in the dumps most of the time.

While at work with the chain gang he suddenly determined that life was not worth living and that he would find out what was in store for him in the next world. He was without a knife or other weapon with which he could destroy himself, so he finally hit upon the idea of blowing himself into the bouillabaisse space with a piece of dynamite which he found in the city's rock quarry where the prisoners aer at work.

White has but little knowledge of dynamite and its uses, but he remembered that dynamite is exploded by concussion. Secreting the piece of explosive in his pocket, White bided his time. Finally seeing that he was not closely observed, he chewed up the dynamite, swallowed it with a gulp and when he thought it had been distributed through his system he picked up a huge rock and dropped it with a dull thud on his foot.

He felt sure that the concussion would set off the powder in his vitals, but he was sorely disappointed. When the boulder struck his pedal extremity, he gave a howl of pain which could be heard a block away. Thinking he had been stung by a snake or chewed by a spider, his guards ran to his side. White was almost speechless with pain and it was a half hour later before he could be made to explain the cause of his warghowl.

Finally White admitted what he had done. He was taken in hand by a guard and very tenderly transferred to police headquarters, where he was given an unusually soft bed and when the jailer approached his cell he walked on tiptoes, as he did not wish to take any chances of jarring White, fearing that he might explode.

Next morning White did not want to go to work but he was ordered out by Captain Lynch.

"If that man is going to explode," said Lynch, "let him do so while out in the open. I don't want to take any chances with him in jail."

White says he will not make another such attempt on his life.

HALF MILLION IN BUILDINGS.

The statistics of the Builders' Exchange show that contracts to the value of $525,000 were let for the month of April, and for the first four months of this year, to the value of $589,611.

A Strathcona Shield.

The Alberta Musical Festival since its inception two years ago has met with splendid encouragement. Particularly is this true of the citizens of Edmonton, who have extended every support. They have generously assisted the committee who undertook the venturesome task of promoting such an enormous undertaking by gifts of handsome shields and medals, and by their attendance at the various sessions of the festival, particularly at the grand concert on the final night, where they have enjoyed one of the greatest musical events ever attempted in the West. The committee in charge have been gratified by the interest of the festival, particularly this year, especially from outside points. The city of Strathcona has been a strong supporter from the first, but this year has gone one better. Besides sending a choral society, choir, male quartette, double quartette, and soloists to compete, the city council has donated a handsome shield for competition to be known as "The City of Strathcona Shield." This was a most gratifying manner of showing their interest in the annual provincial musical festival on the part of the council from our neighboring city. Edmonton citizens generally will appreciate the gift.

The festival competition will commence with a band and male chorus competition in the Thistle Ring on Tuesday evening, and the remainder will take place in All Saints' school room on Wednesday and Thursday, ending with a grand concert in the Thistle Ring on Thursday evening, under the distinguished patronage of his honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who will also present the prizes. The plan of seats is open at the Mason & Rich Co., 130 Jasper west.

both witnesses and counsel grow that Minty finally told Bennett "It was none of his business," when questioned in regard to the terminals.

Yesterday Afternoon.

The afternoon session opened by Mr. Walsh asking Minty why he wrote to Woods asking him what Cross had done while in Ottawa toward arranging for Dominion aid for the road. Minty said he was simply trying to get information. He simply assumed that as the road was a colonization one and thus entitled to government aid, and took no part in negotiations with the government.

He could not recollect anything in connection with the matter. He was not sure he heard who Clarke was dealing with in England toward disposing of the bonds. He did not remember having heard. All he remembered was that Clarke gave him to understand that negotiations were proceeding satisfactorily. On March 30, Clarke wired Minty, "Friend has already started east. My information indirect. But know will need you soon." Minty said "friend" meant Cross. His arrangement was simply a desire to open the north country. He could recall no arrangement for a meeting of Cross, Minty and Clarke. Walsh asked if Minty, Cross and Clarke had met in the spring of 1909. Minty asked if there were any documents whereby he could refresh his memory. Walsh said there were none. Witness said he met Cross and Rutherford at Ottawa. Clarke was also there as far as he could remember.

Sale of the Bonds.

He could not recollect any meeting of all four at once on this occasion to discuss the Alberta and Great Waterways. He met Clarke in August of 1909 upon his return from England. Clarke told him the bonds were selling at par. He never heard of the syndicate in which Clarke was interested to take the bonds. Clarke told him he was receiving no commission.

Morgan and company bought the bonds on August 6, 1909. In December Minty wrote Clarke giving some information about putting the bonds on the English stock exchange. Minty's explanation of this was to the effect that Clarke was interested solely because as a representative of the railway company he wanted every listing listed all right to avoid hitches. Minty did not know who Clarke referred to in his letter, when he asked advice regarding getting a commission from a syndicate. It might mean bond underwriters. Minty's letter advising against this next appeared. When the company was organized Clarke deposited $50,000 in the Merchants Bank in Edmonton. The money was paid in cheque to Clarke's account. Clarke had an overdraft of $50,000 in the Merchants Bank in Edmonton. It was not a note, it was an overdraft. The arrangement of the overdraft is verbal and is shown by cheques only. Market cheques were made in favor of the Alberta and Great Waterways; no one but Clarke had arranged for the overdraft. Then on October 2 the resolution of the company was passed voting Clarke $50,000 for expenses incurred in forming the company. Clarke then took up the overdraft. This was arranged beforehand with Mr. Fraser, manager of the bank. Speaking of the "record run" he said he had seen neither Cross nor Cornwall in New York. He did not know whether Clarke went to England or not. His mind was very much taken up with personal affairs and he left New York as hurriedly as possible. One of his relatives had died very suddenly. He saw Clarke next on 21st March, 1910. Clarke never told Minty there was any member of the government or legislature of Alberta who was interested financially, directly or indirectly, in the Alberta and Great Waterways.

WHERE THE SHOPS BECKON

On Monday afternoon the Masters Piano Co. held a reception in their splendid warehouses in the Alberta Block, and all afternoon groups of interested people dropped in to investigate personally the claims of the various pianos, and piano players for which this enterprising firm are the agents.

At the present time there is a magnificent range to choose from, and in these fine quarters there is a novel opportunity afforded to see just what each instrument is capable of.

In the large front show-room are ranged pianos of every style and price. Beautiful little Cottage-Bells, especially adapted for the rather small parlors that are the common rule out West; and from that on up to magnificent large instruments, in both Bell and Lachenberg, that would be suitable for any room or hall. But whether in cottage or concert hall size, the tone quality is the same, brilliant, bell-like, and wonderfully musical.

Here, too, the small instruments, such as violins, flutes, cornets, etc., are on display, and Mr. Masters informed me that from now on he hopes to make a special feature of these goods. Incidentally, in this connection, the firm are just opening up a splendid range of sheet music, carrying all the classic as well as the newest popular lines, which should prove a veritable boon in Edmonton, where up to the present practically no sheet music was obtainable. All sheet music will be kept in stock, and presently the firm have it in mind to issue one of their own.

Beyond the main show room are the cooly arranged general and private offices, and beyond that again, a private piano salon, where intending purchasers can hear the instruments they fancy played away from the confusion and noise in the street.

Here comfortable chairs are provided, and under as happy conditions as in a private drawing room the prospective buyers can select the instrument of their choice. In another cosy little room are the piano players and Mr. Masters is very enthusiastic over his present stock in this line. I heard one played as I passed through the room, with beautiful effect, suggesting much the playing of a very accomplished pianist than any mechanical piano player I have ever listened to.

Downstairs again is another great room full of pianos, also a delightful small apartment where the gram-phones and talking machines are on display. Here one may listen to Harry Lauder reeling off his contagiously merry songs, or spend a quiet hour in the company of the greatest artists, both vocal and instrumental, of the day. Some of the grand opera records are marvellous, and I am delighted to hear being eagerly bought up by an appreciative public.

In the rear are the store rooms and workshops, where in time the company are going to manufacture their own stocks, install expensive machinery for piano repairs, etc., and so complete as up-to-date and attractive quarters as any piano house west of Toronto. Already the firm is doing a tremendous business, having to send one repeat order after another to keep pace with their trade, thus proving that enterprise and fair dealing are bringing their own reward in the West, as they do in the larger and so-called more highly civilized centres of the East.

Found $20,000 Worth of Jewels.

New York, April 27.—The mysterious disappearance of $20,000 worth of jewels of the late Mrs. Theodore Octavia Moss, widow of the late theatrical manager, has been cleared up by a break of chance. The missing jewel collection was revealed it was learned, by an accidental striking of a foot on a secret spring which released a door in a pedestal in the home of Mrs. Moss, on Madison avenue, and revealed a dazzling array of gems, all the trinkets and jewels that had been famous during the life of Mrs. Moss.

"A KNIGHT FOR A DAY."

The big musical gaiety, "A Knight for a Day," with its record of over six hundred nights at the Whitney in Chicago, six months at Wallick's in New York, and all of one summer at the Tremont in Boston, will be seen in its entirety at the Empire Theatre during the latter part of next week.

The production is one of merit and boasts a chorus of rare beauty and talent, including a number of miniature maidens in dainty dresses. Those who are fortunate enough to have seen "A Knight for a Day" know it to be a gay and girly gleam of particular charm in its score and of uproarious mirth in its comic story and incidents. Mainly it concerns the misadventures of Jonathan Joy and Tilly Day; the first a nervy little waiter who decides to pass himself off as a knight whose credentials he has assumed and failed to return because of the owner's neglect to tip him; the other a chore girl at a young ladies' boarding school. Comic incident runs riot through the piece.

Hide Jewels in Patrol Box

Denver, Col., April 30.—More than $500 worth of jewelry remained unnoticed in a patrol box from Saturday until today, although it was visited forty times daily by patrolmen. The police believe it was hidden by the man arrested.
